Activity #1 : Perfect Shot

Step 1: Place your Perfect Shot target on the floor. (We recommend a surface that is easily cleaned!)

Step 2: Each player chooses 3 Gummy Bears.

Step 3: Player 1 stands over the target, licks the back of the Gummy Bear (to make it sticky!) and drops each bear. Your goal is to get as close to the bulls eye as possible.

Step 4: Eat the rest of the Gummy Bears!!

The Player closest to the bulls eye wins the game!

Activity #2 : Chair Exercise

Step 1: Place the chair in the center of the room.

Step 2: Player 1 (preferably an adult) partially sits in the chair. Place only some of your weight on the seat of the chair and the rest concentrated on one leg to support you.

Step 3: Ask some questions:

- Say, “Here’s a tricky question. Is the player demonstrating with their actions that they trust the chair to hold them up?” (Explore everyone’s responses. Why or why not?)
- Ask, “What can you do to prove with their actions they trust the chair to hold them up?”

Step 4: Give your child the opportunity to demonstrate for you how much they trust the strength of the chair. Some may choose to sit in it. Some may choose to stand in it.

We want your child to grasp the concept that our actions demonstrate what we believe. If we believe the chair will hold us up, then we demonstrate that belief by placing all our weight on it.

Him will not die but
